THE PLATFORM.

A Sound Document Put Forward by the Republican Convention.

The Course of the Democratic Party shown Up and Denounced.

President Hayes Sustained and Thanked for His Persistent Efforts.

The Republicans of Wisconsin, by their representatives assembled in state convention, declare their adhesion to the following propositions:

FIRST.

The Republic of the United States is a nation, not a confederacy of sovereign states, and its government is clothed with a permanent authority for the regulation of all subjects of national concern.

SECOND.

The elections of members of Congress are national elections, and as such the whole country is interested in having them fairly and peacefully conducted, so that every voter may be afforded an opportunity to exercise his right of suffrage freely and without fear of personal violence, to vote once and only once at a given election, and to have his vote honestly counted and returned. It is the duty of the national government to enforce this right. The Republican party is opposed to any military interference with elections, except when it is necessary to maintain the public peace and protect the constitutional rights of citizens. In no instance under a Republican administration have United States troops interfered with the exercise of free suffrage on the part of the people. The Democratic party, by the votes of its representatives in Congress against the proposition to prohibit the presence in the vicinity of the polls not of United States troops, but of all men armed with deadly weapons, has clearly shown the bad faith and hypocrisy of its affected horror of bayonets at the polls. It would permit an armed mob of its own partisans to surround the ballot-box, but would prohibit the employment of United States soldiers to protect peaceful citizens from intimidation and violence at the hands of the mob.

THIRD.

The refusal of a mere majority in Congress to make appropriations of money already collected by tax from the people for the ordinary and legitimate expenses of the government, with the purpose of compelling the president by such refusal to approve a measure which he regards as unwise and wrong, were revolutionary in principle, subversive of the constitution and deserving the condemnation of all good citizens.

FOURTH.

The practice of attaching what is popularly termed "political riders" to appropriation bills is vicious legislation, and should be prohibited.

FIFTH.

The thanks and grateful recognition of the people are due to President Hayes and to the Republican members of Congress for their firm and successful resistance to the attempts made by the Democratic party to disarm the national government, on election days and to repeal all law for protecting the security of the ballot box and providing for the detection and punishment of fraudulent voting.

SIXTH.

The successful resumption of specie payments has vindicated the wisdom of the Republican policy on that subject, and afforded a signal illustration of the lack of honesty and of statesmanship which led the Democratic party to oppose resumption, and to declare that it was impossible. It has already borne precious fruits in enabling the government to fund its debt at four per cent. interest, an economy of many millions per annum, in promoting a feeling of confidence and security that is already giving a powerful impulse to all business and industrial pursuits. The interests of all classes of the people are best promoted by a currency possessing or representing intrinsic value, such as we have at present, and bearing a fixed relation to the world's money of commerce. All attempts to modify the existing laws in a way to induce depreciation or fluctuations in the money of the country should meet with a firm and determined resistance.

SEVENTH.

That it is the duty of Congress to enact laws to carry out the provisions of the constitution, with its amendments, and secure to the people of the State the rights guaranteed by it, and that the laws, which enacted, are supreme and must be obeyed and enforced, and the recent attempts of the Democratic Congress to repeal and strike from the statue books such laws, some of which were placed there by our fathers, and have been enforced nearly a century, has no parallel in the history of the country.

EIGHTH.

That our Governor and State officers are entitled to the thanks and approval of the people for their wise and faithful administration of the public trusts committed to them.

A MENNONITE CAMP.

A Curious Night Scene on a Hoboken Wharf.

From the New York World, July 21.

The pier of the North German Lloyd, at Hoboken, was rendered picturesque last night by the camping-out of 336 Russian Mennonites who arrived yesterday on the steamship Mosel from Bremen. A remarkable fact about the party is the number of children included in it. Some of the couples have as many as twelve. At 10 o'clock last night men, women and children lay asleep flat on the pier ranged in long rows with walking ways between, others were stretched out upon bales and boxes of merchandise, and in three or four places men sat in groups of five or six, talking in subdued tones. Only the glare of camp fires, a little rurality and the stormy sky overhead were lacking to make a typical wild Western scene such as would have fired the heart of Captain Mayne Reid. The Mennonites come from the neighborhood of Odessa and represent a capital of over $400,000. Among them are sixty families, having 213 children. They are a remarkable fine looking party.

Juvenile Magnanimity.

A lad was once called before the police court in one of our large cities for throwing a stone, which struck a little girl in the eye. The respectability of the parties excited considerable interest, and drew many persons to hear the examination. The boy was bound to appear at the municipal court, and Colonel Mason was engaged as his counsel. Soon after the examination another boy about twelve years of age, called upon the colonel and asked:

"Sir, are you engaged to defend ——?"

"Yes, I am why do you ask?"

To which the little fellow replied:

"Because, sir, I threw the stone, and caanot suffer a comrade to be punished for crime of my own commission."

"Well done—you are a fine boy. What is your name?"

"My name is ——."

"Well," said the counsellor, admiring the noble-heartedness of the lad, "will you tell the county attorney you committed the act?"

"Yes, sir," said he, and immediately went to the attorney's office for that purpose.

The friends of the injured girl, on hearing these particulars, declined taking any further steps in the matter.

The wheat crop of Minnesota is estimated at 45 million bushels this year, which is a large increase over the yield of 1878.

The City Times classes Hon. I. C. Sloan among the Republican backsliders. The Times is in too great haste in thus speaking of Mr. Sloan. He did join the Greeley movement, but now he is a stalwart Republican, and emphatically endorses the platform recently adopted by the Republican State Convention.

The Democratic party in Ohio is daily confronted with discouragement. Many of the hard-money Democrats refuse to take any part in the canvass or give Ewing any hope. The Democratic State Committee is without friends, speakers will not work without pay, and Tilden will not allow his barrel to be tapped for Ewing's benefit.

A dispatch from Washington says the computation made at the Bureau of Statistics, for the eleven months ending May 30, 1879, discloses the important fact that for the first time in the history of the country the exportation of breadstuffs has exceeded in value that of cotton and tobacco—the two staples of the South combined. Cotton is no longer king.

We publish in full to-day, the very admirable speech of Congressman Williams, delivered at the Republican celebration at Madison on the 23d. It is an able speech made on a great occasion, and will be read with deep interest and much profit. The powerful speech of General Garfield, made at the same time, will be published in the Gazette to-morrow.

The "great financial crash" which Doolittle and other Democratic and Greenback speakers said last fall would surely come if Sherman's policy was adopted, has sorely disappointed the Demo-Greenbackers. There is nothing that so burdens the Democrats and the Greenbackers as the success of resumption. It haunts them in every convention, and ghost-like stands before them in every speech.

Last year Colonel George B. Goodwin was a Greenbacker, for the reason that he thought Sherman could not resume specie payments. But when he saw that resumption was a grand achievement, that our paper currency was worth as much as gold, that gold could never again be at a premium, that money was sufficient in quantity for the demands of trade, and that times were looking up, he became a Republican, being satisfied that there was no mission for the Greenback party.

The Evening Wisconsin pays Mr. Cassoday the following compliment, which is deserved by him, and appreciated by his friends: "The brief speech of Hon. J. B. Cassoday, of Janesville, upon taking the chair as President of the Republican Convention, was eloquent in word and exalted in sentiment, as Mr. Cassoday's speeches always are, and what is best of all, the speech is an index of the man. He is a gentleman whom the State would well to call into her service."

COMING TO THE SURFACE.

It has been announced that the Manitowoc Pilot, published at the home of Joe Rankin, the supposed Chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, prints a call for a State Convention to be held at Madison on the ninth of August. Why Joseph should select a small country paper in which to publish his call, and purposely ignore the official organ of the party, needs explanation. And then there is a mystery about the time being so short—only two weeks' notice to the Democrats that a State Convention will be held. Did the Republican rally at Madison, and the striking harmony in the State Convention, wake Joe up and resurrect the Democratic State Central Committee? Something has struck him, and very forcibly, for he hardly takes time to rub his eyes before he orders a State Convention. Joe has been in forlorn hope during the past three or four years. Things have gone crosswise with him. He couldn't put life enough in the party to keep it on its feet. He lent himself as a wet nurse and still the party received no nourishment, and finally he turned it out to grass, and he went into seclusion. How this attempt to discover where the party is and what it is, will succeed, is a serious question to the unlucky Chairman of an unfortunate Central Committee of a hopeless party.

The Wisconsin Democrats are placed in a peculiar condition. They are without a leader, without a record to help them, and have no policy which will give them strength. Theirs is a party of political stragglers. They have no bad purpose except to catch as many votes as possible and in this way have been confronted with discouragement. They have made a stumble every time they have approached the financial question. They have been on all sides of it except the right side, and now they advise pulling the wool over the eyes of the party by ignoring the money question entirely, and going it blind for the present campaign. The history of the Wisconsin Democracy is a history of disastrous failures, and this fall that history will repeat itself.

P. S.—A later dispatch names the 9th of September as the time when the Convention will be held.

A BIG SEASON.

WINONA, July 24.—Latest reports from the Mississippi Logging Company are that thus far this season 160,030,000 feet of logs have been rafted into the Beef Slough. The Company expect to raft in 105,000,000 feet more this season, which will thoroughly clear the Chippewa River and tributaries.

MEMPHIS.

Serious Trouble Apprehended From a New Cause.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 24—This morning fourteen new cases were reported to the board. There is trouble ahead of a serious nature. Late last night a few prominent colored leaders held a meeting, and among other resolutions adopted, was one which protested against the removal of the blacks from the city to the camps which will be established at some new point. The determination of the authorities to depopulate the city and to furnish supplies only to those who go into camps has angered the negroes, and the situation is extremely critical. While no open threats have been made, there is no disguising the fact that a majority of the blacks are opposed to the plan, and will not go. The two colored companies here are divided. The McClellan Guards, under Captain James Glass, favor the removal of all classes to the camps, the Memphis Zouaves, of which R. A Brown is captain side with the mass of the colored people, and thus there is a conflict. The camps have not been established, owing to the hostility of the citizens living in the vicinity where the sites have been chosen.

A military force will be necessary to carry out the designs of the authorities, and when a foothold has been gained by the erection of tents, then will come a crisis if force is attempted in driving the negroes from the city.

There are not 4,000 white people remaining in Memphis, while the blacks number not less than 12,000. This is the true condition of affairs to night.

This afternoon the Memphis Zouaves were out drilling, which, of itself is not a reassuring spectacle.

WASHINGTON, July 24—There are some apprehensions that there may be yellow fever cases here, as the refugees from Memphis are constantly arriving, and there is no quarantine whatever.

CINCINNATI, July 24—Joseph Hook, a Memphis refugee, who arrived here Saturday, died of yellow fever to-day.

WING.

He Regards the Prospects of an Election Somewhat Dubious.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—To a Democrat with whom he conversed last evening, before he left this city, General Ewing is reported to have said that he regards the prospect of his own election as somewhat dubious. The reason of this, he said, is that a dual campaign will be fought in Ohio this year; and, while he thinks the State ticket will not be entirely neglected, he fears that the main struggle, by some of the strongest Democrats in the State, will be to secure the return of a Democratic Legislature. Among the leading Senatorial aspirants besides Thurman he counts Representatives Hurd and Gen. Morgan. He is reported as saying that he does not expect much help from them, except incidentally. He repeated that one of the greatest difficulties he has to encounter is the want of funds, and is said to have remarked that, while he thought funds had been or would be procured from the East for Democratic campaign purposes, they would not be used for his benefit.

General Ewing, it is said, regards General Cary's championship of his cause as a damage to him, and thinks he would get more National votes if Cary would oppose him. He also fears a greater defection among German Democratic voters than he is willing to admit in public. Altogether, General Ewing appeared to his Democratic friend to be very despondent as regards his own success, but equally hopeful that the Democrats will secure the Legislature and the return of a Democrat to the United States Senate.

SITTING BULL.

Orders from the President to General Miles.

WASHINGTON, July 24—To-day the President and Secretary McCrary had a long consultation as to the threatened Indian war in the Northwest, and what steps had best be taken to prevent it. From what information they had they agreed that war is not necessary, and that all reasonable caution should be taken to prevent it. Both the President and Secretary McCrary have great confidence in General Miles as a fighter, but think he is inclined to be rash, and not sufficiently cautious in avoiding hostilities. The government is anxious to avoid an Indian war, as it would be very expensive and probably result in no good, as Sitting Bull could retire into British America if about to be worsted. Secretary McCrary says Sitting Bull will not fight openly, but steal around massacreing detachments. It is feared that in case of war Sitting Bull might be pushed into British America in order to invite pursuit, and thus give rise to complications with England. The President says that his purpose is to use every honorable means to avoid Indian wars, as they are enormously expensive and usually result in no good either for the Indians or whites. The orders previously sent to Miles were supplemented to-day by more of the same general tenor.

A REVEREND RASCAL.

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 24—A man who has called himself Rev. C. H. Browning, and who came to this city a few months ago to publish a temperance paper, was arrested last week for cattle-stealing at Grinnell. His preliminary examination resulted in his being bound over, and in default of bail he went to jail. Last fall he established here a paper called "The National Temperance Reformer," and advertised extensively in Western papers, offering $600 a year salary for an agent, and portraits, fountain pens, etc., as premiums to subscribers. He published only a few copies, but kept on advertising, and has received in this manner a great many subscriptions. He has intrigued people in all parts of the country.

"HONOR" SATISFIED.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 24—A duel took place yesterday at a point fourteen miles east of Columbus, Miss., in the State of Alabama, between Captain Humphreys and Major Moore. Five hundred people witnessed the affair. The combatants fired upon each other at a distance of ten paces with Smith & Wesson's revolvers without effect. Major Moore fired immediately upon turning. Captain Humphreys took a cool, calm, deliberate aim. After the first fire, friends pressed the seconds to take advantage of the regulations of the code, which was done and the affair ended, both their honors having been satisfied. The duel grew out of difference in politics.

RAILWAY PROJECT.

FOND DU LAC, July 24.—There was a meeting of Eastern capitalists last night, with officers of the Sheboygan & Fond du Lac Railway to plan for an extension to Elroy, to make a direct route to St. Paul, thus tapping the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul line. As a result, A G Ruggles, President of the Sheboygan & Fond du Lac, with C J L Meyer, L A Emerson, W S Meller, of Chicago, for the Chicago and Northwestern line, and other railway men started to-day to examine the route from Princeton to Elroy. This branch seems sure to be built, and that quite soon.

MILWAUKEE MARKET.

MILWAUKEE, July 24—Fair prospects of a good harvest, and the quiet state of the foreign markets somewhat checked speculation, but holders were firm nevertheless. August and September options occupied the operators. Telegrams from Chicago caused a decline in prices, and at the late board a further reduction on September. No. 2 for August sold at 94¼@94½c, and for September at 92⅞@93¼c. No. 3 cash sold at 85c. No. 2 cash receipts were nominal at 94¼c.

MRS. DORSEY'S WILL.

NEW YORK, July 25—Percy Ellis, of Brooklyn, brother of Mrs. Dorsey, who bequeathed her property to Jefferson Davis, has received a copy of the will and a letter from Davis. Ellis says the will will be contested. There will be no compromise. Able counsel, both in this city and New Orleans, already have been employed. The ground upon which the contest is to be made is either undue influence or a mania which it is said in the history of the Ellis family has shown itself frequently.

A CONVICT'S LUCK.

SPRINGFIELD, July 24—The Governor has pardoned Edward Peterson, who was sent to the penitentiary for four years for larceny from Henry Colne in June, 1876, and has less than two months of his sentence to serve. Peterson has been left an estate in Sweden, and must claim it in person by August 30, to secure his share.

ANOTHER QUARREL.

NEW YORK, July 23—The World's Washington special says the Camerons have another quarrel on hand with the President. The latter offered to give the Secretaryship of War to anybody Camerons would name. When they named a Pennsylvania man, there followed the announcement of the nomination and acceptance of Ramsey.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

ESSAYS FROM THE NORTH AMERICAN REVIEW. Edited by Allen Thorndike Rice. New York: D. Appleton & Co. Chicago: Jansen, McClurg & Co. For sale by James Sutherland & Sons, Janesville. One vol. 12 mo. Price $2.

The present editor and proprietor of the North American Review, Allen Thorndike Rice, is a young man of immense wealth and splendid literary judgment. He has made that review a fair exponent of the thought of the period on the great questions of the day. It is a model periodical of its kind. This neat volume before us contains twelve papers, the oldest being from the pen of Washington Irving, written in 1832. Among the other essays are "The Last Moments of Great Men," by George Bancroft; "Nathaniel Hawthorne," by George William Curtis; "James Fenimore Cooper," by Francis Parkman. The editor in the preface says: "The essays collected in this volume may, without pretension, be truly said to represent the growth of native thought and scholarship in the United States from the close of the second war with Great Britain down to the close of the great Civil War. In few libraries, public or private, can complete sets of the North American Review be found, and the best thoughts and the freshest activity of two generations of conspicuous American writers have thus remained inaccessible to the great mass of the American reading public.

GEIER WALLY, A TALE OF THE TYROL. By Wilhelmine Von Hillera. Appleton & Co, New York. Jansen, McClurg & Co., Chicago. For sale by Sutherland & Sons. Paper, 25 cts. pp. 200.

Under the title of "New Handy Volume Series" the Appleton's are sending out some very readable books, of which this volume is a sample. Miss Von Hillera writes with an evident purpose and points a moral. The story is fresh and striking, though somewhat crude in its development.

AN ATTIC PHILOSOPHER IN PARIS. By Emile Souvestre. Appleton & Co., New York. Jansen, McClurg & Co., Chicago. For sale by Sutherland & Sons. Paper, 30 cts., pp 210.

This charming writer has given a calendar of his impressions in the form of a journal running from January to December, and forming a series of bright pen pictures of a beautiful christian spirit, who in the midst of poverty and sorrow not only leads a life of cheerfulness and trust, but helps by his sweet philosophy and kindly deeds to lighten the burdens of others.

WHAT IT HAS WROUGHT

The History of the Republican Party and Its Principles.

How It Marched Through Mobs and Civil Wars to Reach the Glory it Has Achieved.

The Democrats in Pro-Slavery and Mob Times.

How Free Speech, and a Free Press Were Secured.

Facts Which Every Man Should Read and Remember.

Speech of Hon. C. G. Williams, Delivered at Madison, July 23d, 1879.

MR. CHAIRMAN AND FELLOW CITIZENS: Twenty-five years ago, on the spot where we now stand, the Republican party of Wisconsin was organized. By the very terms of its organization it pledged its energies and dedicated its life to the advancement of human freedom and against the further spread of human slavery. I know of no more fitting spot on the broad earth for such a party, with such a purpose, to be born, than here, under the shade of these oaks; in the midst of these blue lakes and grassy hillsides. Twenty-nye years is a complete epoch in the history of to day. We hye more in one year now, than we used to in ten. A quarter of a century is a rugged test for men, measures, parties, and principles. Electricity and rapid transit have turned on the light, and the theories of to-day are only too apt to be the fallacies of to-morrow. Nothing can hope to stand twenty-five years now, which does not plant its feet upon and lift its head into the light of God's free sunshine. If twenty-five years are a momentous period in the ordinary history of our country, what shall we say, when we cast our eyes back over the last twenty-five years; note the beginning, mark the end, and think of the mighty events which have roared and thundered between; and amid which our young party walked like a giant and conquered like a king! Twenty-five years ago, as I have said, the Republican party was organized on this very spot, and in order to realize how, events are crowded into time, we have only to remember that nineteen years before that, this spot itself was without a designation or a name! Only forty-four years ago, the land on which Wisconsin stands to-day was virtually an unbroken wilderness; where now run her trains, float her ships, stand her mills, her factories, her forges, her churches, her schools and universities, and where now dwell her million and a half prosperous, happy, joyous people, then ruled with undivided sway the wild beast and the barbarian of the forest. Civilization had scarcely a hold within her borders. The few white men who dwelt upon her soil were gathered around the military posts of Fort Howard, Winnebago and Crawford, and the small hamlets of Green Bay and Milwaukee. No newspaper was published west of Lake Michigan forty-four years ago; and Wisconsin's only means of communication was by Indian trails, military roads and the rivers and streams which, like silver threads God had drawn through her lealy forests and smiling prairies.

SUCH WAS WISCONSIN

only nineteen years before the Republican party was formed. Democracy, I believe, had largely participated in its organization both as a territory and a state, and had ruled sufficiently to demonstrate, even then, its peculiar aptitude for the handling of trust funds, and the management of election returns. Then, as now, "freedom of elections" and especially freedom with the ballot box, was the pride and hope of Democracy. Within the last one hundred and sixty-six years, Wisconsin has been ruled by two kings, one State and four territories; and, fellow citizens, I can but regard it as most befitting and auspicious that on this, the silver wedding day of the Republican party, Ohio, our first foster mother, should send here one of her most distinguished citizens, one who, I indulge in no extravagance in saying, ranks among the world's first orators and statesmen of to-day [Applause]; and that Michigan, our last foster mother, who at our territorial nuptials freely gave away her fair young daughter of the lakes; and, when we had grown to full estate, gave us from her statute book one of the best codes of free school laws the world yet has seen. I say I deem it most befitting that she, too, should be represented here by two of her ablest and most distinguished statesmen. [Cheers] One whose lips have been touched by the live coal from off the altar of eloquence and patriotism, and the other who has struck such sturdy blows for Republicanism everywhere, that while a State honors his manhood a Nation claims his fame. [Applause]

If it be hard to realize the physical transitions of this country, I think it not less difficult to realize

ITS POLITICAL CHANGES.

Take this same period of time, running over the nineteen years from 1835 to 1854, and what was our political condition? We hear of mobs, riots, murders and assassinations in the South, for political opinions' sake. Can it be possible that such things ever existed in the North? Can we realize now that, on the 4th day of July, 1854, David Paul Brown, of Philadelphia, one of the ablest lawyers and most accomplished scholars this country ever produced, was confronted by a mob of bankers, merchants and business men in New York city and prevented from delivering an oration at Chatham Street Chapel, lest he might say something in behalf of human freedom and hostile to human slavery! Can we believe that in July, 1836, James G. Birney, an ex-slaveholder, Southern born, who had emancipated his slaves and come to Cincinnati to publish his paper, called The Philanthropist, in which, while he opposed slavery, he insisted that all its constitutional guarantees must be sacredly observed—can we believe that he was waited upon by a committee of thirteen, five of whom were members of Christian churches; which committee was headed by Judge Burnett, ex-Judge of the Supreme Court of Ohio and Senator of the United States, by whom Mr. Birney was informed that a mob of 5,000 people was ready to move, which would be joined by two-thirds of the property holders of Cincinnati, and that he could have just twenty-four hours to leave the city (a la the Southern mode to day!) And can we believe, further, that when in the name of freedom of speech and freedom of

THE BOSS PUMP OF THE WORLD.

The L. J. Russell Patent Non-Freezing Double Acting Force Pump

Is one of the latest and greatest wonders of the age. It is more simple than any other pump in use, and we warrant these pumps never to freeze, in fact they act as a siphon, and suck the water out of the pipe back into the bottom of the well. It will suck water out of a pail or barrel, and if water enough could be held to the nezzle, it would fill the well or cistern. If your well freezes solid it wont hurt the pipe or pump. Put one of these pumps in a well thirty feet deep and one man can force water (a solid stream) through pipes seventy feet high and half a mile in distance. A great many people, as soon as they get these pumps and a short piece of hose, stop their insurance, and by getting a pump that costs fifteen dollars, they save, many times from ten to twenty times what the pump costs in insurance every year, and then they save this expression every winter, and many times:—"The d—— old Pump is froze up again." Rip, tear, salt, hot water, jerk the pump handle, break that, more hot water, spoil the packing, and then get a pump man to fix it—and how they fix it, if you are good pay.

THE OIL PIPE.

An Exciting Experiment in the Petroleum Regions.

Pittsburg Dispatch.

John Ward, one of the watchmen on duty during the filling of the new oil pipe line, gives an interesting account of what he saw. The line crosses Hiner's Run, or its head waters, at a place called McClure's Springs. Here there is a quite a depression in the ground. From this place to the residence of Mr. Holding, some six miles beyond, there is a gradual rise; this the oil had to climb after passing the hollow at the spring. "I was told," said Ward "to watch well this hollow, as the oil had ascended the Kettle Creek mountain, and was coming. I repaired to the hollow and lay some hours there, when I heard a sound like a heavy wind, and presently heard the oil gurgling past. I waited some time. There was no leakage, and all seemed perfect. I thought that the pipe line was a success for sure, and so left my position and passed along to see if it was all right ahead. I had gone some two miles when I received a dispatch to watch well the hollow and not leave it for some time, so I hastened back. Imagine my astonishment when I saw the place I had left a short time before so tame, now hissing at 10,000 points. Jets of oil were flying twenty feet high and hundreds of barrels flowing down Hiner's run, never to see a market.

"I thought the pipe was gone up sure. At first I was afraid to approach it, but soon grew valiant, and with calking chisel I set to work to stop the leak. I made poor headway. I had taken off my coat, the whizzing oil carried away my hat, and I very soon became thoroughly drenched with oil. My pockets and my hair and eyes were full, and if I was not then an oil man I would like to know what constitutes one. I at length grew sick, and supposed I would have to give up and all would be lost, when all at once the whizzing stopped, and instead of an out pressure, I could hear an in-drawing—a suction of air. I now realized the fact that the oil had all this time been climbing the upgrade to Mr. Holding's, but was now on the descent for Pine Bottom Run. This caused a suction, and relieved the hollow at the springs.

"I again waited some time when I received a dispatch to hasten to Haneyville that the pipe was bursting. I procured a horse and went with all speed. When I arrived the people there were greatly excited. The pipe was throbbing and whizzing at every pore. McClure Springs was nowhere. The oil was spouting from the pipe for miles. I made no attempt to calk. I knew from experience at McClure's Springs that the oil had reached and was climbing the high mountain below Pine Creek, but the pressure was so great that I feared every moment the pipes would burst.

"Here was a force against which human power was of no avail, hence, we only stood and looked on, when suddenly, as quick as thought, all commotion ceased, except a suckling in of air, and I heard the oil pass rapidly along the pipe, and knew it had crossed over the mountain, and was sweeping its way to Williamsport, with no more mountains to climb, and that the oil line was an established fact."

Sorrowful Experience of a Good Old Man on a Sleeping-Car.

It was in a Pullman "sleeper," between Albany and Buffalo. Among the passengers were a middle-aged couple, evidently on their first journey, and a sour-faced old maid, rather desiccated in her general effect, who was traveling alone. The couple had an upper berth, and the "maiden well stricken in years" the upper berth in the adjoining section. In the same car were a couple of frolicsome youths, ready for any sort of mischief. Bed-time came, and all hands retired. But the husband could not sleep. Whether it was because of the motion of the cars, the noise, or the but, try as he would, he could not sleep. At length it occurred to him that he was thirsty. The more he thought of it, the more thirsty he got. So he called the porter, who brought the ladder and helped him down. Now, while he was gone for the water, one of the "boys" stepped out of bed and shifted the ladder so that it rested against the berth in which the ancient maiden was sleeping, and then returned to his bed to note the result. In a moment or two the husband returned, and crept quietly up the steps, anxious to make as little noise as possible so as not to awaken his wife. The occupant of the berth thus rudely intruded upon awoke with a start, and screamed. The husband, supposing it to be his easily frightened wife, tried to reassure her, and said: "It is only me." "Only you, you old scoundrel," said the venerable maiden, "I'll teach you a lesson," and with that she seized him by the hair of his head and screamed for help. Then he howled with pain. Then his wife awakened by the noise, discovered where her husband was, and raised her voice in lamentation, heaping reproaches upon her faithless spouse. Then the passengers all got up and demanded an explanation of the commotion, and foremost among them was the wretch who had caused it all. Then the husband, covered with confusion, and utterly unable to account for what he had done, climbed down from his perch and slunk away to bed, where he was soundly lectured for his faithlessness. Although it was a most uncomfortable though ludicrous situation, and the glances of defiance that were exchanged between the wife and the old maid all through the next day were a study.

PROF. HARRIS' RADICAL CURE FOR SPERMATTORHŒA.

"SEMINAL PASTILLE"

A Valuable Discovery and New Departure in Medical Science, an entirely New and positively effective Remedy for the speedy and permanent Cure of Seminal Emissions & Impotency by the only true way, viz: Direct Application to the principal seat of the Disease, acting by Absorption, and exerting its specific influence on the Seminal Vesicles Ejaculatory Ducts, Prostrate Gland and Urethra. The use of the Remedy is attended with no pain or inconvenience, it is quickly dissolved and soon absorbed, producing an immediate soothing and restorative effect upon the sexual and nervous organizations wrecked from self-abuse and excesses, stopping the drain from the system, restoring the mind to health and sound memory, removing the Dimness of Sight, Nervous Debility, Confusion of Ideas, Aversion to Society, Etc. Etc. and the appearance of premature old age usually accompanying this trouble, and restoring perfect Sexual Vigor, where it has been dormant for years. This mode of treatment has stood the test in very severe cases, and is now a pronounced success. Drugs are too much prescribed in these troubles, and, as many can bear witness to, with but little if any permanent good. There is no Nonsense about this Preparation. Practical observation enables us to positively guarantee that it will give satisfaction. ——During the eight years that it has been in general use, we have thousands of testimonials as to its value, and it is now conceeded by the Medical Profession to be the most rational means yet discovered of reaching and curing this very prevalent trouble, that is well known to be the cause of untold misery to so many, and upon whom quacks prey with their useless nostrums and big fees. The Remedy is put up in a neat box, enough to last a month, and sent in a plain wrapper by mail sealed for $3.—Two boxes, (sufficient to effect a permanent cure unless in severe cases) $5 ——Three boxes lasting three full months, will stop emissions, and restore vigor, in the worst cases, $7.—Full DIRECTIONS for using will accompany EACH BOX.

(Send for a Descriptive Pamphlet giving Anatomical Illustrations, which will convince the most sceptical that they can be restored to perfect manhood, and fitted for the duties of life, same as if never affected. Sent Sealed for stamp to any one. Sold ONLY by the

the press this ex-slaveholder refused to comply with a demand so infamous, a mob of Northern freemen made up of the wealthiest of Cincinnati, entered his office, scattered his types and plunged his press in the waters of the Ohio, and, going to his house and failing to find him there, wreaked it vengeance on the poor helpless negro population of the city! These were

GOOD OLD DEMOCRATIC DAYS THEN.

There was no Republican party to molest or make afraid. We all remember how, in 1835, Geo. Thompson, the great English philanthropist, who had been mobbed at Old Plymouth, was also prevented by a mob from addressing an assembly of 30 ladies in the city of Boston, and forced to leave the country—and that when the mob failed to find him, it seized Wm. Lloyd Garrison, put a rope around his neck, dragged him through Wilson Lane to State street, where he would have been torn in piecemeal, but that he was rescued and lodged for protection under the roof of that symbolic temple of American freedom, the common jail! And this, Mr. Wilson tells us, was a mob—not gathered from the purlieus of Boston, but from the counting houses of State street, and the parlors of Beacon street! This was the same Ladies' Anti-Slavery Society, which the gifted Harriet Martineau blessed with her approval and graced with her distinguished presence, and for which she was immediately tabooed by the best society of Boston!

On the same day the Utica convention was broken up and the action of the mob was so outrageous that Gerret Smith, a son of fortune, and, as he proved to be, a son of thunder, was converted by it and thenceforth laid the wealth of his fortune and the wealth of his manhood and courage on the altar of human freedom! [Applause.] This happened to be for on this very same day Montpelier signalized her devotion to oppression and wrong by mobbing Samuel J. May, and the president of the bank and twenty five of her principal citizens ordered him to leave. Who can forget, and, yet, who can fully realize, that as late as the 18th day of May, 1838, that beautiful temple, known as Pennsylvania Hall, costing $40,000 and dedicated to free thought and free speech, was burned to the ground by a mob! And then, as it to be consistent with what was to follow, in later years, and further to satiate its vengeance, it burned the asylum known as a "Shelter for Colored Orphans!"

Mr. Chairman and fellow-citizens, well might this country then, well may this country to-day, heed that Persian proverb, which says, "Beware of the cries of the orphan for his cries reach the throne of the Almighty."

It could not be otherwise than that this accursed mob spirit should claim its martyr. It found him at last, when on the 7th of November, 1837, Elijah P. Lovejoy, at North Alton, fell riddled with bulle's, and weltering in his own blood. Then Old Faneuil Hall closed her doors, and said that no remonstrance must be heard within them. And then it was that a new Boston seemed to rise out of the sea! The Old Temple of liberty was forced to open her doors, and when the roaring mob shook her from foundation to turret for the first time. Wendell Phillips, a young, unknown lawyer, rose and without a moment's warning to anybody hurled his fiery darts into the boiling mass. The mob, astonished and dazed for the moment, broke forth in indescribable rage, and with clenched fists yelled, shrieked, hissed, "Take it back!" "Take it back! Pale, impassioned, inspired, he hurled the defiance into their teeth, "I will never take it back!" And by the majesty of his power, and the might of his intellect, he in Faneuil Hall. He did not take it back. And whatever we may say of his eccentricities of thought or action, God bless his noble soul. [Applause.] He never has taken it back from that day to this. [Applause.]

Right there began a new era in American politics. The way was opened which seventeen years later made the formation of the Republican party a necessity. Men like Orestes A. Bronson, Edmund Quincy, Wm. E. Channing, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry Wilson, Charles Sumner and hundreds of others girded on their armor; and while they differed as widely as men could as to the means and methods, on one thing they were all united; and that was, that come what would, from the free soil of the North this hellish spirit of human slavery should be driven out. It might live unmolested under municipal laws if it could, but under the broad ægis of the federal constitution, from that time forth, liberty, not threats must dominate. [Great applause.] The die was cast, and the result was inevitable. True, slavery, both in the South and in the North, straightened its lines and strengthened its defences. It demanded new guaranties, which sycophantic politicians and corrupt commercial interests were only too eager to grant; but it was this which broke the spring. The conscience of the nation reacted, and the party whose twenty-fifth anniversary we celebrate here to-day sprang full panoplied into life and power. [Tremendous applause.]

Reviewing now its career, retreading the rugged paths over which it has passed; recasting the great war cloud under which, through toil and tears, and blood and sacrifice, it marched by faith alone—tell me, men of Ohio, tell me, men of Michigan, tell me, men of Wisconsin and the Northwest, if it ever gained anything by truckling compromise or ignoble surrender? [Cheers.] Look over the contests of the past; note the men who have borne its banner through the thick of the fight and planted it again on the heights of victory; tell me to-day, were they men of conviction or men of contrivance? Did they retract, apologize, shift and readjust their issues, year by year? Or did they follow their convictions like the polar star of destiny, letting it lead them whether it would? When the flame of rebellion broke over this land, of what avail, then, were your Crittenden Compromises, your grand committees your peace conventions, your miserable and sycophantic offers of surrender? Two diverse civilizations, nurtured under the same constitution and laws, rose like two mighty giants and grappled for the death. In a contest like that, the occupation of the compromisers was gone; and so far as the vital and fundamental principles of government are concerned, would to heaven it had gone forever. [Applause.] In that very contest, it cost us millions of money, thousands of lives and oceans of agony. Yet one great party ever stood on the frontier, waving the olive branch of compromise and surrender, while the other bore the old storm beaten banner of the Republic through the fire and flame of war and planted it high on the walls of a restored nationality. Looking back through the vista of years to the time when rebels and cut throats stood, sword in hand, demanding the life of the nation, which do you most admire—the seven reports which came back from the committee of thirty-three, advising every possible concession for the sake of peace, or the one signed by C. C. Washburn, of Wisconsin [loud cheers] and Mason W. Tappan, of New Hampshire, which declared that the constitution rather than amended?" Which do you like best in a contest like that—the language of that eminently respectable patriot, Charles Francis Adams, in whose frigid presence the polar wave is supposed to uncover, as it passes—who counseled conciliation and any reasonable concession to stem and turn the rising current, and who, while he admitted the rebels had no case, still said, "let us conciliate on some fair basis like that offered by the committee?" which do you like the best,—that, or this language, uttered when that same report came up for adoption: "No! no! no] concession! no compromise! Give us strife, even to blood, before yielding to the demands of traitorous violence!" Who said that? Old Zach Chandler [tumult of applause] of Michigan! Which man stood by his guns then? which man stands by them now? Before whom did traitors in the United States Senate tremble in 1861? Before whom do they tremble to-day?

Fellow citizens, I have thus retraversed these red and rugged fields of history, not for purposes of complaint or spying out differences, if I could; but rather for the purpose of congratulating you, and with you the people of the whole country, that as the Republican party was solid and united in 1854, as it was solid and united in 1860, as it speedily became solid and united again in 1861, so on this, the 25th anniversary day of its life, it is more solid, united and determined than it has been at any time during the last six years of its existence. [Applause.] Accepting this welcome fact, and leaving to others the offices of criticism, we come here to-day only to remember the lessons and the glories of the past and to prepare, if we can, for the realities of the future. What they are, I need not detain you to enumerate. The events of the last few months are the property of the nation. They have sent a shudder of apprehension through all ranks and classes of society. They too plainly tell that the next two years are fraught with grave responsibilities. Within that time, is to be made by the South, aided by its faithful allies of the North to gain by the ballot that which it lost by the bullet! In that same struggle the question must also be decided whether the laws of this government can be properly administered by its authorized officers, or whether they can be overthrown by a mob? A law for one is a law for all, and within proper jurisdiction the laws of the United States must be equally enforced, North, South, East and West. On this ground, the Republican party can stand; on this rock it can plant its feet, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it! [Loud and long continued applause.]

THE LAST DESPERATE STRUGGLE

The obligation of the government to enforce law is co-operative with the obligation of the citizen to obey law. Absolve either from this obligation, and civil government becomes a farce. When free thought and free speech can be tolerated in the South as in the North, then peace and reconciliation will come to say; but to expect these on any other conditions is to jest with the subject. Since the cessation of hostilities the life of no man in all the North has been jeopardized for political opinions' sake. The most extreme men of the South could and have uttered their sentiments as freely and safely on the soil of New England as in the State of Mississippi or South Carolina! But to say that any Northern Republican could prosecute a political canvass in the South, relieved from personal danger, is to

of the country, The fact that such a thing is not proposed or thought of is the best commentary on the actual condition of this country to-day.

Now, so long as this condition of things remains, so long must the Republican party stand guard [Applause] As we have seen the same hateful sentiment of intolerance once existed in the North, but it passed away more rapidly than we expected. So, in the South, it will disappear. But as in the one case it did not go away by magic or incantation so in the other human agencies and logical methods must work out practical results. The situation is indeed full of gravity, but this nation is not going to die in the morning of the second century of its life! [Applause.]

In the next apportionment, the centers of political power moved toward the Northwest, leaving sectional issues behind. Unless full and equitable relief be granted, the spring of 1880 will see such an exodus of people from the South to the North as this country has never seen before. I do not speak without advice on this subject. He who attributes the present movement to some temporary craze or delusion, little appreciates how the negro or what he will do to secure it; not so much for himself as for his children who are to come after him. Any belief that the dullest ex-slave in the lowiest cabin of the darkest corner of the republic does not know who liberated him, and where his rights will find protection, is one of those delusions, among many, which slavery left as a legacy to the white man. This movement will go on, unless returning reason will arrest it, and thus the law of self interest and self-protection may work out and solve a problem which cannon balls could never do. Would to God that it might be so.

And in the meantime, fellow citizens, let us push on the grand old column of Republicanism to its day of jubilee! For in that glad hour, American civilization shall triumph and this land be dotted over with happy homes from the lakes to the gulf, from the rivers to the sea. [Long continued and enthusiastic applause.]

FRIDAY, JULY 25, 1879.

CITY AND COUNTY.

BRIEFLETS.

—Fish-day.

—Cool nights for sleep.

—The Temple of Honor gathers to-night.

—Lawn party this evening at Mrs. F. H. Judd's.

—The Band and the Guards show up to-night on the street en route for the lawn party.

—G. H. Davis, of the Davis house, started for the sea-shore with his family, yesterday afternoon.

—Mrs. Jeremiah Day, who has lived many years here, has lately received about $1,000 from the arrears of pension fund.

—The owner of a stray flock of geese can hear of their whereabouts by calling at this office and paying for this notice.

—It don't do any hurt to clean out the hog pens this time of year, though some owners of live pork seem to think differently.

—The family of the late Nathaniel Case wish to thank the citizens of Janesville and others, for their kindness to them in their deep and sore affliction.

—Ancient but honest: "Trying to do business without advertising is like winking at a pretty girl in the dark—you may know what you are doing, but nobody else does."

—The Temple of Honor came out ahead on their excursion to Madison, notwithstanding the reports to the contrary. Their pocket book has had a few dollars added to its contents as a result.

—Wallack's Combination with four big stars and numerous attractions have engaged the Opera house for the 19th and 20th of next month. They will probably play "The Two Dromios," and "Scraps of Paper."

—Last evening the Bower City Belle took fifteen or twenty couples up the river. After enjoying a pleasant steamboat ride the party landed at Buob's grove, and indulged in a merry dance, Anderson's orchestra furnishing the music.

—A. O. Wilson, of the Janesville Times, started for the East yesterday. It is confidently asserted that he will return ere the opening of another month with a new partner. We congrat— but no, we'll wait till the time comes, though it's hard work to keep in.

—The young people of Trinity Episcopal church held a very pleasant social last evening at the residence of Mrs. McHenry, No. 39 Jackson street. The lawn was made brilliant by an array of Chinese lanterns, and thronged with young folk, while the parlors presented no less animated a scene. Refreshments were served in abundance, and a jolly social season indulged in.

—A Boston Doctor says musquito bites are healthy as they drain the system of bad blood, are a sure cure for erysipelas, etc, etc. Any poor sufferer who wants to try it can have a few hundred musquitoes which have been serenading us for a few nights past, if they will only come and hive them. We always pitied those who had erysipelas, and stand ready to help them as far as possible.

—Some of the Second ward folk who like to sleep nights complain that the quarrelings in some households are so frequent and so boisterous as to disturb their slumbers. If husbands and wives must pitch into each other they ought to do it before bedtime, or else content themselves with making faces at each other, or throwing pillows, or something of that sort that wouldn't make a noise. For shame!

—Ho for the Dells of the Wisconsin River! The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway have now on sale, to parties of ten or twelve persons, tickets to Kilbourn City, via Madison and return, at five dollars and ten cents each, including boat ticket on the "Dell Queen" through the wonderful Dells of the Wisconsin river. Return tickets good for five days. Book description of the Dells can be had on application at the C. M. & St. Paul ticket office.

ACCIDENT AT THE FACTORY.

This forenoon one of the employes of the cotton factory, Miss Tina Preller, met with an accident by which she lost one finger. She was cleaning off a loom, and her hand caught by some chance in the gearing, and in an instant one finger was cut entirely off. As is usual in such cases the report of the accident grew in size as it traveled, until it soon had assumed the proportions of "a frightful calamity," but the above are the facts at the bottom of the rumors.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY PRENTICE & EVENSON, DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last night stood at 79 degrees above; at 1 o'clock a. m. to-day at 65 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m. at 65 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m. at 85 degrees aboye. Cloudy.

One year ago to-day at 7 o'clock a. m. the thermometer stood at 77 degrees above zero, and at 2 o'clock p. m. at 90 degrees above.

The indications to-day are, variable winds, mostly from east to south, slowly falling barometer, slight changes in temperature, and partly cloudy weather, with light rains in northern portion.

WATER-WORKS AT WORK.

The managers of the cotton factory have arranged a system of water-works, which are decidedly gratifying to all the employes A rotary pump has been purchased and put in operation, by which the water is drawn from a well in the yard, and forced through gas-pipes to all parts of the building. Each room is now supplied with a flowing stream of cold, clear well-water, which is used for drinking purposes, and for supplying barrels which stand ready for use in case of fire. The arrangement is as complete as can well be imagined, and furnishes all the employes with ready means for quenching their thirst, by draughts from what seems to be a living spring. The water is as good as can be found anywhere, and the pump takes the it flows in, and it being constantly running, it is not allowed to get warm in the pipes, but pours forth continually as cool and sparkling as the best spring water. The improvement has cost only about $100, but it is of incalculable value to those who are housed with that busy whirl of wheels all of these sweltering days.

UNITED WORKINGMEN.

They Celebrate Their Anniversary in Good Shape and Show a Good Record of Their Doings During the Past.

Last evening there was a goodly number who gathered in Lappin's hall to celebrate the first anniversary of the Olive Branch Lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen. The first part of the evening was devoted to musical and literary exercises the programme opening by a well-rendered piece by the Bower City Band. Mr. W. G. Wheelock, who presided, then introduced Mr. O. H. Fethers who is always cordially received. He read "Baby Bell," rendering it admirably. The Amphion Quartet Club consisting of Messrs. Alden, of Beloit, Ennis, of Rockford, and Ashley and Bennett of this city, sang a very difficult piece, and sang it well.

Mr. G. A. Libbey then spoke on "Our Order." After giving cordial greeting to the friends assembled he briefly and clearly sketched the history and the purposes of the organization. About a year ago some eight or ten of the present members met in the Sack Company's room and Brother A. H. Taisey, State Deputy Grand, conferred on them the degrees of this order, and on the 27th of July, 1878, the lodge was fully organized, the officers elected, and it was christened "Olive Branch Lodge" by Brother F. Sonneborn. It now numbers seventy members. The object of the organization is to furnish mutual protection. The heirs of a deceased member receive $2,000, and that amount is always on hand for immediate payment. The affairs are conducted on business principles and at comparatively small cost. The order has been organized in the State nearly four years and now numbers more than 2,500 members. This State has a separate jurisdiction as regards the beneficiary fund, paying no losses except such as occur in the State. It is under the immediate control of the Grand Lodge of the State which is composed of delegates from the subordinate lodges. It in turn is subject to the Supreme Lodge of the United States, which binds itself to each individual member to pay $2,000 for each death loss as long as there are 2,000 members remaining anywhere in the order. The order in the United States numbers from sixty-five or seventy thousand members, New York, Pennsylvania, and Iowa taking the lead. The organization has been in successful operation for thirteen years, and may be looked upon as a permanent success. During that time many insurance companies have gone by the boards either by corruption or mismanagement. After answering some of the objections which are sometimes raised against the order, the speaker closed with expressing thanks to those who had so kindly assisted in the entertainment.

The Amphion Club gave another song, which was received with enthusiastic applause. Refreshments were then served, and a brief season of social chatting was had, the Band interspersing some of their best pieces, and giving life and enjoyment to the occasion. It was a happy affair throug hout.

FUNERAL OF MR CASE

The funeral services of Mr. Nathaniel Case, who was killed by the cars last Tuesday, as he was crossing the track, were held at the residence yesterday afternoon. Rev. H. Sewell officiated and made some very appropriate remarks from the passage found in Matthew 25:13, "Watch therefore, for ye know not the day nor the hour wherein the Son of Man cometh," The attendance was largely made up of many of the best citizens, who listened with breathless attention, and with hearts evidently full of sympathy with the bereaved.

Nathaniel Case was born in the State of New York, September 28, 1826. He was married to Sally Ann Williams in Madina, Ohio, in November, 1847, and came to Janesville in the year 1856, where he has lived ever since, excepting three years when he resided in Jefferson county. He served all through the Mexican war, enlisting as a private when in his nineteenth year. He was the first to enlist in the old Thirteenth Regiment Wisconsin Volunteers, as private in Company A.; served all through the war, and was promoted to Corporal. His father was a veteran of the war of 1812; his grandfather was a drummer in the Revolutionary war. Mr. Case was a quiet, unassuming, and very industrious man. His neighbors speak of him in the highest terms of respect and esteem. He leaves a loved companion, two grown up daughters, and one son all of whom are married.

FINDING BURGLARS' TOOLS.

On last Fourth of July there were several suspicious individuals, and well-known crooks lounging about Janesville. Two or three were arrested and locked up for a day or so, and others were warned to get beyond the city limits. On leaving Janesville they struck toward Monroe. They stopped at Hanover Junction long enough to force an entrance into Brown's grocery store, and commenced work upon the safe, when they were interrupted by some cause, and hastily left. The only plunder they took was a coat belonging to Mr. Brown. Nothing more was learned concerning them until yesterday, when Mr. Brown found under the platform of the depot his missing coat. He also found a large number of tools, such as are used by burglars and safe-blowers, and which were undoubtedly placed there by the same parties. There were jimmies, cold chisels, blow pipes, wrenches, nippers and powder—in fact a pretty good assortment of tools useful to a man who wanted to crack a safe. There was also some white powder, which had probably been purchased at Palmer's drug store in this city, as it bore that name upon the wrapping paper. The finders of the property are unable to say whether it is arsenic or magnesia or something else.

strange that the fellows to whom the stuff belongs have allowed it to remain there so long, as it has probably been hidden three weeks. Perhaps the gang have been nipped as vagrants, or arrested and locked up on some other charge, and have been unable to take away their property.

HAPPY YOUNG FOLK.

Last evening, a very enjoyable home entertainment was given by the young people of Quality Hill, at the residence of Mrs. Miner, on Court Street. For some time past the young folks have been accustomed to hold fornightly gatherings at their different homes and last evening proved to be the happiest meeting of all. Heretofore the programme has been entirely of a musical character, but last evening dramatical efforts were interspersed with music.

The first item on the programme was a dialogue, "The Rich Aunt and her Money." This was given by the Misses Fenno Bostwick, Kay Colvin, Charlotte Prichard and Anna Doty, and proved an entire success, the ancient costumes being laughable in the extreme and the characters exceedingly well taken.

This was followed by a tableau, "The Happy Family," consisting of a domestic group of kittens.

Then followed a duet "In the Starlight," by Miss Anna Randall and Miss Matie Eldredge, with a guitar accompaniment by Miss Julia Wilson.

Next came a very humorous charade, given by Morris Bostwick, Seth Cushman and the Misses Minnie Doty, Mary Pond and Floy Miner. This was exceedingly well acted, and the amateur performers are to be congratulated upon the proficiency they display for such young persons.

After this a very pretty duet was rendered by Mrs. C. E. Moseley and Miss Dollie Patten. The singers' clear voices blended harmoniously and well-deserved applause was heartily given.

A selection from John G. Saxe, "The Cold-water Man," was then read by Seth Cushman, after which, in conclusion, a chorus "Good Night, Ladies" was sung, in which the entire musicale participated. After this the company dispersed to their homes very well satisfied with the result of the entertainment. The rooms were very beautifully and tastefully decorated with flowers and ferns and presented a very pleasing effect.

THE MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF NEW YORK.

Cash Assets $90,000,000—The Largest and Best Life Insurance Company in the World.

The rates of the Mutual Life of New York are much lower than those of any other Mutual company in the world, and its dividends are correspondingly larger, and are paid at the end of the first year, and every year thereafter. Those needing the protection of life insurance should not be satisfied with anything less than the best, which is the cheapest in the end; and doubly so when the best and most reliable can be had at the lowest rate. The Company demonstrate by an experience of over a generation that the protection they offer, costs nothing during the expectancy of life, as they have invariably returned all of the premiums paid, and over 7 per cent compound interest added, on risks that have matured during the expectancy of life of the assured. For example: At age 33 the expectancy of life is 33 years, and the annual rate $21.06 per $1,000 of Insurance, with annual dividends in the Mutual Life of New York. If a policy issued at that age, became a claim at, or before 33 years from its issue, the policy would amount to more than all of the premiums paid on it, and 7 per cent compound interest added. Therefore, any one satisfied with a compound interest investment at 7 per cent would have the protection free. The first year it would be $1000 less, $21.06=$988.94 protection] for nothing, and that is hard to beat. The annual cash income is about eighteen millions of dollars from a membership of over 92,000. Anyone desiring the best life insurance in the world is invited to communicate with
